Chicago's New City Chief Says He Will Redeem Pledges He Made In Campaign.

FAR REACHING RESULTS EXPECTED

Municipal Ownership Of The Street Railways Now An Assured Thing--Chicago Goes Democratic.

(SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.)

Chicago, April 5.—Mayor-Elect Edward F. Dunne, within an hour after he was assured of his election, reaffirmed his publicly expressed conviction that municipal ownership of the street railways would be possible to Chicago within two years. He said: "Dealing with a mayor of iron will and a friendly council, the traction interests will recognize the inevitable and take a fair price for their property and give us a municipal ownership in two years. This is what I expect, but if they want to fight we will give it to them in and out of court." On the other hand, friends of the street railway corporations express no fear of the municipal ownership idea being carried out. They rely upon the council as safe as a neutralizing agent of any municipal ownership scheme brought forward, pointing out that practically the same men are in control of the present council as have all along favored the renewal of franchises to a street car company but with the provision for eventual public ownership.

Supported by the people, Judge Ed. F. Dunne defeated John Maynard Hanna for mayor by a plurality of 24,454.

He reversed a republican plurality of 109,431 given Theodore Roosevelt for president last fall, and increased by nearly 17,000 votes a plurality of 7,679 which Mayor Carter H. Harrison had over Graeme Stewart in the city election two years ago.

Frank D. Comerford was elected again to the legislature, from which he was expelled because of the charges of graft made by him.

Other Illinois Elections.

Illinois cities and towns elected officers Tuesday, but in most cases local instead of partisan issues determined the result. Representative Geo. W. McCaskrin, independent, was elected mayor of Rock Island by a plurality of 1,000. The contest had peculiar interest in view of the fight for his seat in the legislature. Mayor Devereaux, democrat, of Springfield, was re-elected by 250 plurality, the remainder of the republican ticket being chosen. Quincy elected a democrat mayor for the sixth term by a plurality of 400. The following cities went republican: Atlanta, Dixon, Fairbury, Macomb, Murphysboro, Pontiac, Vandalia, Weldon. The democrats elected mayors at Quincy and Springfield.

Tobacco Is Healthy.

In the course of my association with tobacco, about twenty-five years, I have known men all this time, every working day, to be inhaling tobacco dust or fumes produced in the process of manufacture. Uninterrupted good health is the general rule of all persons engaged in tobacco proceedings of every kind, and generally of large consumers.—Writer in London Lancet.

Milwaukee, April 5.—On the ground of immunity in testifying before the grand jury the supreme court today reversed the sentence of former Alderman William Murphy, now serving the fourth month of a year's sentence in prison for grafting, and ordered a new trial. If the immunity stands more than half of over a hundred indictments for grafting may be invalid.

TELEPHONE GIRL CAPTURES RICHES

Casual Meeting in Hotel Brings About Engagement of Young Woman to Man Near 70.

New York, April 5.—As a climax of a romance begun at the telephone board in the Grand Union hotel last fall Miss Anna Bennett, formerly an operator there, is to become the bride of E. R. Whitney, a capitalist of Montreal, who is well known in local financial circles and is reported to have $20,000,000. The marriage will take place soon after Easter. Miss Bennett is 22 years old. Her fiancé is close to three score and ten. Mr. Whitney owns large coal mines in New Brunswick and is a self-made man.

Mr. Whitney's acquaintance with the pretty telephone girl began six months ago, in the way of business. Neither at that time dreamed that this first meeting—the mere asking for a telephone number—was to develop into a tender affection and the present engagement.

The telephone calls became more frequent and Mr. Whitney's acquaintance with Miss Bennett became more friendly. There were dinner parties and theaters, and finally the proposal. Miss Bennett's answer in the affirmative was followed by her resignation from the telephone company's employ.

"It will be my second marriage," said Mr. Whitney. "My first wife died two years ago. I always had been opposed to the idea of second marriages and did not believe the death of husband or wife was a valid reason for the survivor to enter the matrimonial state again. Particularly I did not hold those views in the case of old persons, and I'm a very old man, you know," he said with a smile which lit up his rugged features. "But I'll take back all my former theories on the subject. I did not understand. Miss Bennett and I had met."

Retort Courteous.

Sandy McNab was courteous of his ancestors and of the noble connections of his family. A tourist who was spending a week in the village where Sandy lived met that individual driving a pig. "Hullo, Sandy," said the visitor. "Is this one of your noble relations?" "Na, na, sir," was Sandy's reply. "She's no relation at all, she's just an acquaintance like yourself."

(SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.)

Lahore, India, April 5.—A relief party has been dispatched to Dharmsal, which is practically destroyed by the earthquake. In the European quarter nine were killed and most of the houses were wrecked. The entire population of five thousand are homeless.

Mussoree, India, April 5.—Eleven earthquake shocks were experienced here April 4, commencing at 6:10 a. m. The first was the most severe. It continued for three minutes and during that time it was impossible for a person to stand without support. Much damage was done to property. The left wing of the Savoy hotel collapsed, the new Catholic church was wrecked and every house in the place was damaged. Several homes were hurriedly vacated.

Tall Houses Crush Low Ones.

Lahore, April 5.—Shortly after 6 o'clock Tuesday morning the sharp earthquake shocks within the memory of the inhabitants were felt here and most of the people left their swaying and creaking homes to seek safety in the open. The damage was extensive. It is feared that there was considerable loss of life in the city, where many picturesque, tall, old houses collapsed and parts of lofty buildings crashed on small adjacent dwellings.

The towers of the Golden mosque are reported to have fallen and Wazir Khan's mosque was badly cracked.

SEEK TO KILL BOMB VICTIMS

Unknown Man Enters Hospital At Warsaw And Shoots At Wounded Police.

ONE SHOT ONLY REACHES ITS MARK

Entered Institution At Night, Goes To Cot Of Wounded Official, Fires Shots And Then Escapes.

Warsaw, April 5.—While everyone was asleep Monday night in the hospital in which are the three policemen who were injured by the explosion of a bomb which was thrown into the police station at Praga, a suburb of Warsaw, on Sunday, March 26, an unknown man entered the ward and went to the bedside of Policeman Sarap, at whom he fired his revolver three times. One shot took effect in the back of the policeman.

The assailant escaped before the patients and attendants had time to recover from the shock and surprise. Sarap has been especially hated on account of his brutality in the recent riots.

Find Contraband.

A strong body of police, aided by two companies of infantry, Monday night made a thorough search of Wola, a suburb of this city, chiefly inhabited by criminals, revolutionaries, and suspected persons. The police seized quantities of revolutionary pamphlets and manifestos and recovered six cartridges and arrested sixty-three persons. The search occupied the whole of the night.

The University of Warsaw has been officially closed.

Terrorists Back of Plot.

St. Petersburg, April 5.—The police arrested in the Nevsky Prospect a man disguised as a carriage driver, presumably belonging to the same organization as the twelve persons who were arrested last week for supposed connection with terrorist schemes.

There is little doubt that there was a plot directed against the life of Gov. Gen. Trepoff, and the latest arrest indicates that the terrorists are acting on a concerted plan with auxiliaries and lookouts to aid the actual perpetrator of the assassination.

War Orders Not Countermanded.

War Minister Sakaroff declares that the reports of Russia countermanding orders for war material across the baseless and grow out of the declaration of foreign offers with which the war office and admiralty have been swamped. He insists that there has been no relaxation in the preparations to continue the war, but says there will be no new mobilization at present, explaining, as stated in these dispatches, that 140,000 troops of the last mobilization already have started for the front and that instead of mobilizing new troops these will be followed by a portion of this year's conscripts.

Loyal to Kourapatkin.

Gen. Sakaroff denied emphatically that he ever intrigued against Gen. Kourapatkin, affirming that he gave the latter the most loyal support. At the same time, in discussing the battle of Mukden, Sakaroff declared the men and material of the Russian army were equal to those of the Japanese, forcing the reluctant conclusion that the Japanese generalship was superior to the Russian.

In denying the popular impression that a large proportion of army reserve men were sent to the front, Sakaroff made the important admission that reserve men were only sent in the early stages of the war, "before we had assurances from Europe," which is interpreted as a confession that an arrangement was made with Germany for covering the frontier of Poland.

Skirmishing at Front.

Harbin, April 5.—Affairs at the front generally are quiet, except for skirmishing by Gen. Mistechnko's Cossacks. Reports are revived of the movement of a Japanese flying column northward through Manchuria in the direction of Tsitsihar.

The loss and destruction of commissariat stores at Mukden, Hussaitai, Tie pass, Kaiyuan and Chantafu has been a heavy deprivation to the Russian army. As a result the price of forage and provisions has considerably increased.

HARRY K. THAW IS REMARRIED

OFF FOR TRIP TO EUROPE

Presbyterian Pastor Pronounces the Words Which Reunite the Couple and Satisfy the Family of the Wayward Young Groom.

(SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.)

Pittsburg, Pa., April 5.—Harry Kendall Thaw, Pittsburg's young millionaire who gave a $20,000 dinner to French actresses in Paris and who has been more or less before the public recently, was married here Tuesday to Evelyn Florence Nesbit, a former chorus girl and actress whom Thaw was reported to have married abroad.

The Rev. Dr. William McEwan, pastor of the Third Presbyterian church, recipient of many Thaw donations, performed the ceremony. Besides the groom, Mrs. William Thaw, the bridegroom's mother, and brother, Joseph Thaw, and the parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Holman, were present.

Announce Wedding.

The announcement given out states that the marriage was a remarriage, while the minister who performed the ceremony said he did not know it was a remarriage, as the license did not indicate it, and neither Thaw nor his bride would intimate they had been married before.

Evelyn Florence Nesbit was a chorus girl when Harry Kendall Thaw first met her in London. She was from Pittsburg, too, which pleased Thaw. In a short time the former chorus girl was envied by her associates, as a trip to Europe was taken.

Hotels Refuse Guests.

After being abroad for a time the announcement was received here that Thaw and Miss Nesbit were married. Mrs. William Thaw and the other relatives in this city denied the marriage. When the couple reached New York they were refused admittance to a number of hotels.

Neither Miss Nesbit nor Thaw would affirm or deny the rumor they were married abroad. Joseph Thaw was sent over to ascertain in how many places the couple had passed as man and wife. He never made the report public. After most sensational escapades in New York Mrs. Thaw threatened to have a guardian appointed for her son, and then both principals dropped from the public eye. They arrived here Sunday night, secured the marriage certificate Monday, and the remarriage resulted Tuesday afternoon.

Sows Wild Oats.

Harry Thaw is a brother to the countess of Yarmouth. He figured prominently in many sensational escapades. He is said to be worth several million dollars, but Mrs. Thaw arranged some time ago to have a Pittsburg trust company look after the estate of Harry K. Thaw and the countess of Yarmouth.

With the exception of Mrs. Thaw and her son Joseph there were no relatives of the bridegroom present at the ceremony. It is understood here that they knew nothing about it. It is believed here that Thaw proved to his mother's satisfaction that he was married abroad, and as all the Thaws have been married in the Third Presbyterian church it was decided in the interests of "harmony" to have another ceremony.

From one close to Mrs. Thaw it was learned that Mrs. Thaw was satisfied with the marriage, while their new son-in-law was agreeable to Mr. and Mrs. Holman.

ROOSEVELT STOPS AT KANSAS TOWNS

Thousands of People at the Depots to Greet Him and Express Their Pleasure.

(SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.)

Parsons, Kas., April 5.—The President and party arrived here at 7:26. They made only one stop in Kansas, while the engines were changed. Fully five thousand people gathered at the station cheered him. The President made a brief address.

Arrives at Vinita.

Vinita, I. T., April 5.—Twelve hundred people turned out here to see the President. The station was decked in bunting and flags. The President's salute was fired with the aid of an anvil and sticks of dynamite. The President made a short speech and said that he expected soon to see Indian Territory and Oklahoma admitted to statehood.

A Gruesome Parade.

The medical students at Griefswald, Germany, says the New York Medical Record, recently celebrated by parading the streets in a torchlight procession. The gruesome torches consisted of human thigh bones soaked in tar, and a skeleton carried by two students headed the procession.

HUTCHINSON WON FIGHT FOR MAYOR

DEMOCRATIC TICKET SUCCESSFUL THROUGHOUT CITY.

SALISBURY CARRIES THE CITY

Badger Was Elected City Clerk—Connell Won in the Second Ward Easily.

By the vote of the people yesterday, J. F. Hutchinson, the democratic nominee for mayor, was elected for the next two years by a plurality of 335 over the republican candidate, Alexander E. Matheson, and the social democratic candidate, A. F. Knuth. It was a sweeping democratic victory throughout the city and democratic aldermen were elected in the second, fourth and fifth wards, the first and third going republican, there being no democratic candidates. It was one of the hottest municipal campaigns that has been waged in years. Two thousand four hundred and twenty-four ballots were cast for city officials and in every ward but the fifth ladies appeared at the polls to the number of 206. The third ward was the scene of the most active among the fair sex, one hundred and seventy voting on the school commissioner and state superintendent of schools ticket.

Much interest in the campaign has been an exciting one. City Clerk Badger received warm opposition from Martin Dunn, the democratic nominee for city clerk, and won with the margin of 154. Dr. S. B. Buckmaster, candidate for school commissioner at large, had the heaviest vote cast, his majority being 1235. Justice of the Peace Reeder was re-elected by a majority of 1067 and J. W. Richardson, democratic candidate for sealer of weights and measures, carried the city by 958. In judicial affairs, John B. Winslow, a nonpartisan candidate for the supreme court, had no opposition. John W. Sale, a nonpartisan candidate for county judge, had no opposition, and Charles L. Fifield, a nonpartisan candidate for municipal judge, had no opposition. Albert Salisbury, candidate for state superintendent of schools, carried the city by 574 majority. There was no opposition to Charles H. Hemingway and Orley D. Antisdel for the offices of county superintendent of schools in the first and second districts. The vote for the different officials will be found in tabulated form below:

HOW STARS LOOK DURING APRIL

Mercury is the Evening Star in the Early Portion of the Month.

The astronomical data for April, furnished by the Washburn observatory, Madison, are as follows: Mercury will be favorably situated for observations as an evening star the early part of the month. The planet reaches greatest elongation east April 3 on which date it will set one hour and 45 minutes after the sun and somewhat farther north on the horizon. On April 23 Mercury passes through inferior conjunction and becomes a morning star. Venus, which has been the bright evening star so long, is rapidly diminishing in brilliancy as its crescent phase becomes thinner. The planet is swinging backward towards the sun and this will bring it in conjunction with Jupiter again on April 17; while on April 26 Venus will pass through inferior conjunction with the sun and become a morning star. Mars is seen in the southeastern sky in the later evening. The planet is rapidly increasing in brilliancy as it nears opposition. Saturn may be seen rising above the southeastern horizon in the early morning.

The times of sunrise and sunset for the month are as follows: Sunrise—April 1, 5:41 a. m.; April 11, 5:23 a. m.; April 21, 5:7 a. m.; April 30, 4:54 a. m. Sunset—April 1, 6:23 p. m.; April 11, 6:35 p. m.; April 21, 6:46 p. m.; April 30, 6:57 p. m.

The times of the moon's phases are: New moon, April 4, 5:23 p. m.; first quarter, April 12, 3:41 p. m.; full moon, April 19, 7:33 a. m.; last quarter, April 26, 5:14 a. m.

The principal fixed stars visible during the month in the evening hours are: To the west: Capella, Aldebaran, Sirius, Procyon, Castor and Pollux, and the bright stars of the constellation, Orion. Near the meridian, Regulus. To the east: Spica and Arcturus.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE DRILL TEAMS

Woodmen Foresters Will Camp Opposite Lake Park in Milwaukee During Encampment.

Members of the Janesville Woodmen Forester team will be among the 6,000 men in camp opposite Lake Park in Milwaukee during the head camp meeting in Milwaukee in June and the feeling of which is now causing the officers much concern. It is likely that a complete commissary department will be organized for the work which is recognized as one of the most important details of the convention, and Head Consul A. R. Talbot, Lincoln, Neb., Head Clerk Charles W. Hawes, Rock Island, Ill., and Director E. E. Murphy, Leavenworth, Kas., will be in Milwaukee this week to make the necessary contracts. The undertaking will be one of the largest of the kind ever attempted as far from the business grounds, is so far from the business section of that city that temporary restaurants will have to be erected. The head officers will also confer with the members of the local executive committee regarding the other arrangements.

Ball at Schlitz Park. The Schlitz park has been settled on by the ball committee as the place of holding the Woodman ball, which will be one of the features of the convention. This action, however, will have to be ratified by the executive committee before a final contract can be drawn up. It is probable that one of the famous bands of the country will be engaged to furnish concert music at the affair and correspondence with several managers is now in progress, as to the possibility of securing their band at that date.

Options have been secured on either the Nyack or the Naomi for the lake excursion which will be given the officers and delegates. An attempt is being made to have the roads from Michigan and points east make a combination rate which will enable delegates from those sections to come by way of Grand Haven and to Lake.

Feel tired, no appetite, cannot sleep, work or eat? That's spring tiredness and will disappear at once if you take Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea this month. 35 cents, tea or tablets. Smith Drug Co.

PRESS COMMENT

Milwaukee Sentinel: Says a New York fashion item. "The latest wrinkle is the invisible corset." So they should be worn on the inside hereafter.

Chicago Tribune: It has remained for the Japanese to demonstrate that the telephone can carry messages on the battlefield swifter than a mounted orderly can.

Atchison Globe: We have carefully re-read that portion of the scriptures relating to the downfall of Adam, and fail to find any statement that Eve was a blonde.

Racine Journal: The Christian Scientists are getting some hard knocks all around as well as those osteopathy people. But the first ones always have to pass through just such sieges.

Evening Wisconsin: There are enough Badgers on the Pacific coast from San Diego to Vancouver to make it a duty for Wisconsin to fully represent her industrial progress at the Portland exposition.

Superior Telegram: The editor of the Atchison Globe has quit taking radishes on subscription and now he is abusing that excellent vegetable to beat the band. Of course it is easily possible to get too much of a good thing.

Oshkosh Northwestern: Fifty thousand dollars a year is probably a low estimate of the sum that is annually taken from the people of this city by slot machines, and it may be twice that sum or even more.

Chicago Record-Herald: More than 200,000 copies of the works of Charles Dickens were sold in England during one month recently. People over here will presently begin to refer to Dickens as the English Winston Churchill if that sort of thing continues.

Boston Globe: Down in Maryland a big Maltese tabby cat drove a setting hen from her nest four days ago, and has not left the eggs since, except to eat and then she always returns before the eggs grow cold. Just what she will do to the chickens when they hatch nobody is quite prepared to prophesy.

Green Bay Gazette: It will be noticed that the new bill before the state assembly making an appropriation for the Lewis and Clark expedition also provides for a board of five managers. Perhaps the omission of this last feature was what killed the first bill.

Rockford Register-Gazette: A Chicago boy eight years of age says the two things he likes best are to read his Bible and hold communion with God. But if he is a real boy it is safe to bet that before he sprouts whiskers he will know at least once the pleasure of playing hockey from Sunday school to go fishing.

Milwaukee Free Press: The dispatches say that Judge Taft will fill the three positions of president, secretary of state and secretary of war during the absence of President Roosevelt, who is after big game, political and otherwise, in the south and southwest. Taft is big enough to fill any three offices in the country.

El Paso Herald: At the present 100-to-1 ratio of Colombian currency a dollar bill down there has the exact value of a cent in our money. It must give a Bogota man a sense of financial bloatedness to pay $50 for breakfast and $1,500 for a hairer; make him feel like a New York millionaire on his country estate.

Exchange: Gov. Hoch's ideas about christening battleships are not likely to be shared by the fair daughter of Kansas deified to break a bottle of Kansas crude oil at the launching of the state's namesake—she will have on her pretty clothes in honor of the occasion and crude oil and beauty gowns don't like each other.

Portland Oregonian: "Rev. Daniel S. Toy will tell the story of his life, 'From Sporting Life to Preaching.'" Such is the public announcement. Brother Toy probably has been a very vile, immoral and wicked man. Such confession, unhappily, is included in his statement, or at least is to be inferred from it. But isn't silence about such a life better than exposition or exploitation of it for sensational purposes? Is it edifying, can it be conducive to the cause of truth and virtue, for one like Brother Toy to tell how bad he has been? Again, wouldn't it be more in accord with the dignity of human nature if such a one should enter into his closet and shut his door and refrain, even for revival purposes, from exposure of his past life, in its monstrous moral nakedness?

A SNAKE STORY THAT IS TRUE

REAL SNAKE THAT MIGHT HAVE CAUSED SENSATION.

TRAVELED IN PULLMAN CAR

Was Shown by Its Captor After Spending Night in a Grain Sack Under a Seat.

In one of the Pullmans coming north from Nashville, the other night, every berth was engaged and every seat occupied by tourists returning from the south.

All sorts of baggage was scattered around in the isles and when the porter commenced to stow it away, to get ready for the night, there was a general mix-up of suit cases, telescopes, gun cases and wearing apparel.

Lower 10 was occupied by a man and his wife, while the occupant of the upper berth was a gentleman returning from a cruise among the islands off the west coast of Florida.

Among the baggage stowed away under the lower berth was a grain sack securely tied. It was an innocent looking sack and when the porter picked it up and crowded it under the seat with overcoats and wraps it occupied but little space.

When the berths were made up in the morning the lady in number 10 noticed the grain sack on the seat in front of her, and it seemed to annoy her. She said to her husband: "Whose sack is that? I wish you would move it, people will think it is a part of our baggage."

"Oh!" he replied, "what do you care? The bag probably belongs to the man who slept up stairs and who occupies that seat."

But the bag still bothered her, and so she threw a wrap over it to hide it from sight.

Presently the owner of the offensive piece of baggage came in, picked it up gingerly and carried it out into the smoking compartment, where half a dozen gentlemen were enjoying an after breakfast smoke. Throwing it down on the floor he said:

"Gentlemen, I have a snake which I picked up on one of the southern islands while he lay in a torpor after swallowing an eel some three feet long. He disgorged the eel after I captured him. Perhaps you would like to see him."

Then he untied the sack and rolled it down until the body of the reptile came in sight. Carefully feeling for its head he grasped it by the neck and held him up to view. The tail touched the floor with the arm extended on a level, and the size of the body indicated that an eel would answer for an ordinary breakfast.

The owner of the pet claimed to be ignorant of the variety of snake which he was carrying home, but some of the passengers called it a black snake.

Among the interested spectators was the husband of the woman who occupied lower 10. His eyes stuck out like peeled onions and he said:

"My God, what do you suppose my wife would do if she knew what kind of baggage she was traveling with? She would go right through the top of the car, and you couldn't stop her."

But the woman never knew and when the train pulled into the La Salle street station the man with the snake bag in hand marched down the platform in company with the occupant of lower 10.

THE ELECTION

The result of the city election is a disappointment to many people but is highly satisfactory to a majority of the voters and 340 more, who said in most emphatic language "We are pleased with a wide open town and propose to continue it."

This sentiment was expressed not only in the vote for mayor, but throughout the wards as well. It was the liberal elements day and they had a host of active supporters.

The Gazette has long maintained that every city is governed as well as the people care to have it, and this is true of Janesville. A majority of the voters said yesterday: "The slot machine is a legitimate business; the gambling joint a pleasure resort; the house of prostitution a necessity, and Sunday a holiday rather than a holy day."

Majorities rule and the respectable minority submits to the inevitable. Politically the democratic party is in complete control. With six aldermen and a mayor the responsibility for city government will not be contested. It may be a year of surprise, but the chances are that it will be a year of personal liberty, which in many cases will amount to license.

The ordinances which are obnoxious are not liable to enforce themselves, and many of this class will remain a dead letter. Moral reform is not desired and business reform is unpopular. The people who voted for a change of administration will be passengers and interested spectators and with this they will be content to bow to the will and dictation of the majority.

COTTON MILLS IN CHINA.

"Cotton Mills in China," discussed by Mr. J. W. Jamieson, British commercial attaché in that country, is a subject of unusual importance, especially to the cotton manufacturers of the United States, 40 per cent of whose annual exports are marketed in China. The following is an abstract of the report in question, a copy of which has just been received by the Department of Commerce and Labor through its Bureau of Statistics. According to the report, dated March, 1905, there are 17 establishments in China and Hongkong operated by means of steam-driven machinery, their total number of spindles being 619,648. Of these, 9 establishments, with 325,000 spindles, are located in Shanghai alone, and one at Hongkong, with 55,000.

The spinning of cotton into yarn, says Mr. Jamieson, and the weaving of that yarn into cloth are industries which, while not anterior to the manipulation of silk and of hemp fibers, have existed in China for over one thousand years. Carried on practically throughout the whole empire, their great center has for centuries been the country where cotton is grown to the best advantage, that is to say, the seaboard round the mouth of the Yangtze and the Hangchow Bay and the level plains of the provinces of Hupei. It is in these areas that have been established the various mills for treating raw cotton by means of steam-driven machinery. The initial experiment on modern lines was made in 1891, when a semi-official Chinese syndicate started at Shanghai. Its originators claimed for themselves a quasi monopoly, and prohibited outsiders, who were not prepared to pay a fixed royalty for the privilege, from emerging in similar undertakings. Although certain Chinese accepted this onerous condition foreigners resented it as an undue interference with their treaty rights, and it was only when Japan, in 1895, after her war with China, inserted in the treaty of Shimonoseki an article providing for the freedom of Japanese subjects to engage in all kinds of manufacturing industries in the open ports of China, and permitting them to import machinery for such purposes, that outsiders were afforded an opportunity of exploiting the rich field for commercial development thereby thrown open.

The Hongkong Cotton Spinning, Weaving, and Dyeing Company was started in 1898, with a view to catering for the wants of southern China, and hoped to find in Borneo a source of supply of raw material. Such hopes, however, were not realized, and in 1900 it got into serious difficulties. A reorganization on the basis of writing down its $100 shares to $10 each followed, and it has succeeded in paying a dividend on its reduced capital. This mill obtains its supplies duty free, as against an import duty at the rate of 1 haikwan tael per 222 pounds on cotton from abroad. The counts it spins are low, chiefly 10's, and such of the output as is not disposed of locally goes principally to Amoy and Fuchau. The Chinese customs statistics record the imports of Hongkong yarn into China as having been 694,000 pounds in 1901, $16,800 pounds in 1902, and 1,230,400 pounds in 1903.

Four of the mills at Shanghai represent $500,000 of European capital sunk in cotton mills after the Japanese war, on the assumption that with the aid of cheap labor, skilled management, and abundant supplies of excellent cotton a handsome profit thereon would be earned. They all paid small dividends in 1897-98, but have been struggling to keep their heads above water ever since. One of the Shanghai establishments (the Shanghai Cotton Spinning Company) is under Japanese management and control, the present owners having bought it at half the cost price from a foreign bank, into whose hands it fell through inability to discharge its financial obligations. It was originally Chinese-owned.

The main factor which is said to have adversely affected the fortunes of the Chinese mills has been their failure to obtain supplies of raw cotton at reasonable prices and in good condition. The estimates made at the time when foreign capital was about to embark on the new enterprise were founded on the belief that cotton would never go beyond 11.50 taels per picul, as for years its price had remained stationary at 11 taels. In cherishing an expectation of this kind those responsible were, however, grievously in error, as rings and combinations on the part of Chinese middlemen have gradually forced up prices, until now cotton has to be bought at 80 per cent over the figure on which the original calculations were based.

Steam-ginned cotton, the best grade of the Chinese staple, has increased from 14.7 taels per picul (133 1-3 pounds) in 1899 to 18.9 1/2 taels in 1902 and 21.9 in 1904, up to June 30.

The price of yarn has advanced in sympathy with cotton, a 400-pound bale of press-packed bale of 14's yarn being 68.4 taels in 1899, $3.1 taels in 1902, and 92.4 taels for the six months ending June 30, 1904.

As cotton possesses a "world value," the fall in the price of silver has, of course, materially contributed to this rise, there being a difference of 24 per cent between the prices of 1896 and 1902.

Another very serious drawback with which the mills have to contend is the dishonest practice of adulterating cotton with water. An attempt has been made to stamp out this evil with the aid of official support. Other reasons why the cotton spinning industry in China has hitherto proved a comparative failure, are to be found in the lack of experience, everything at first being more or less in the nature of experiment. Chinese labor is becoming more efficient year by year; it is more amenable to discipline and shows a greater disposition to keep steadily at work. The working day lasts 12 1/2 hours, night shifts working 10 hours extra. Many mills in Shanghai pay by piecework, and the average amount earned is 12 cents a day. Elsewhere much lower rates of wages are obtained.

Bargains—and the Woman.

The joke makers have pretty nearly abandoned the woman bargain hunter as a theme.

Time was when about every paragraph, comic artist and joke-smith held her up to the smiling world—pictured as a despoiler of her husband's purse, as a fierce amazon in store crowds, wildly clamoring to buy anything whatever so long as the price had been reduced by a few pennies.

But the woman bargain hunter has slowly yet surely vindicated herself, and she deserves the rest which the humorists are giving her.

Does it really seem very funny, after all, for a woman to study and strive, always, to buy in the best market?

Is it a matter for jest when she tries—not always with entire success—to make her lone dollar do the work of two?

Is it comical—or isn't it a trifle pathetic—when a woman, whose allowance for dress is pitifully small, searches the store ads. and the stores, in a deadly earnest way, to solve the problem of keeping up appearances before her neighbors and the world?

And is it "mania," or just good sense, in a woman to try to expend wisely and carefully the money which worry and work has acquired?

Even a good natured husband will sometimes twit his wife with her bargain hunting propensities—but he would get scared in a minute if she should resolve to stop hunting bargains.

With the same allowance as her less prudent sister, the woman bargain hunter manages to dress better, to keep the children looking better, to keep the house better furnished, the table fuller—and to have many little "extra things" which the other woman is never "able to afford."

The bargain hunting habit makes her prudent and thrifty—teaches her the importance of always having a little money in reserve for the next bargain that appeals to her—helps her to manage her dollars instead of merely spending them.

And in reading her newspaper she finds the really important news in the store ads. She reads these first. Then, if she has time, she reads the details of the war in the East or the latest divorce case.

The governor don't need the senatorial salary, when he can command ten or fifteen thousand a year for a lecture course. He can well afford to stay in Wisconsin and protect the interests of the dear people, and the chances are that he will stay.

For good old-fashioned electioneering the women take the cake. The third ward polling precinct looked like a city caucus all day yesterday, so far as activity was concerned and the string of carriages was evidence of Mrs. Day's enthusiastic supporters.

The Chicago vote yesterday was but an index of socialistic tendencies which just now threaten the nation. There is an army of people who regard it a crime for a man to own property and this sentiment is rapidly increasing. It is about time to call a halt.

Governor Davidson is likely to become a little restless before he takes the oath of office as chief executive of the state, but if he is good he may be permitted to head a delegation for La Follette at the next national convention.

The location of the third ward polling precinct is a burlesque. The location should be changed, or, what is more sensible, the ward divided. The city needs seven wards instead of five and the change should be made before the next election.

PRESS COMMENT.

Detroit Evening News: The public should clearly understand that the crumbling of the concrete foundations of a flat building at Beaubien and Harper constitutes no reflection whatever upon that material. Concrete properly mixed and laid is as enduring as granite, as is attested by the remaining works of ancient peoples who understand the properties of cement. Works of this class are among the surviving monuments of Rome. Concrete made of improper material or laid during freezing weather is, in fact, not concrete at all, and both of these faults appear to have existed in the case at hand.

Appleton Post: People should not judge of the primary election law as a get-out-of-votes from the result of its operation in this or other Wisconsin cities last Tuesday. Here, for example, only about one-sixth of the total vote was polled by both parties, but that was largely due to the fact that with the exception of assessors, only ward officials were nominated, which contests never commands as much interest as the nomination of general city officers available.

La Crosse Chronicle: Golf is not the poor family's game. It costs millions a year. It is said that there are, in all of the countries where it has been introduced, 3,000 golf clubs, and their grounds, club houses and equipments represent an investment of $50,000,000, and that not many of the 3,000 are maintained for less than $5,000. It is safe to say that they will average that amount. That means $15,000,000. For the present we shall stick to cinch, old sledge and croquette.

Racing Journal: Hon. Phily Norcross of Janesville is right. The speech of Bryan was fully as much a vow of the lobby as any railroad bill now up preventing any person or registered lobbyist from trying to influence legislators in any matter in which he is interested, except before a regular committee, and making such a criminal offense, there is nothing defensible about the bill. If any person proposes to bribe another, the existing laws certainly will cover every case which may be shown up with proof.

La Crosse Leader-Press: The appointment of Truman H. Newberry of Detroit, Michigan to be assistant secretary of the navy, the place which President Roosevelt himself had before the war with Spain, is an indication that Senator Alger's influence at the white house is all that he could desire it to be. General Alger's dismissal from the McKinley cabinet was one of the monstrous injustices of the McKinley administration. The people of Michigan, without much reference to party affiliation, have been proud of General Alger throughout his whole public career, and their answer to McKinley's aspersion of him was his commission to represent them in the United States senate.

Milwaukee Journal: In New Zealand a red-haired woman is considered a partner that will lead a man to paradise. The color of the hair is usually indicative of the temperament or nerve quality of the individual. Red-haired people are usually quick-tempered, and yet not more highly tempered than the light-haired and hardly as short-grained and brittle as those of raven tresses. While red-haired people are inclined to flare up quickly, they rarely hold spite. For a long time artists drew the line at red hair, holding that it was not artistic and could not be made to blend with the colors necessary to good portraits. This notion has been most effectually exploded by Jenner, whose red-haired women have become famous the world over, and now so great is the demand for red-haired models that they command higher wages than any others. Thus the red-headed girl, so long laughed at, is getting the laugh back—and the red-headed girl's laugh by the way, is always peculiarly clear and sweet.

Sheboygan Journal: The Green Bay public schools hereafter will teach English as it appears in the metropolitan newspapers, instead of holding up Daniel Webster and Demosthenes as examples of style. There is a habit among certain classes of people, not as common now as it was a few years ago, of holding up so-called "newspaper English" as an example of the worst possible style of English that had been discovered. The truth of the matter is that nowhere can simpler or better English be found, in its every day use. English that is concise and terse, and that tells what it has to say in the fewest possible words, is printed. Where errors creep into the columns of the big dailies it is due almost invariably to the tremendous pace at which the work is done. It is doubtful if better English ever has been written than appears in most of great metropolitan newspapers.

Now when we want to mail a parcel we have to go to the postoffice or place our parcel on a letter box, which is not a good way to do.

WALTER HELMS.

To the Editor: One hears so much complaining in the third ward over the unavailability of the ward that the city fathers and those interested might as well make up their minds to divide it and thus help out the situation. It is really a hardship for a voter to exercise his right to vote and be compelled to go way down to Racine street to cast his ballot. It is all right for the persons living in the lower end of the ward, but for the Milwaukee and Milton avenue residents it is not the easiest.

MILTON AVENUE.

To the Editor: So we women did not vote? Well, from the totals counted in the third ward the skeptical might be induced to believe we do want to vote and can do so intelligently. Not only did we vote but we made no mistakes. Give us a full franchise and then see how the elections will go.

A WOMAN.

To the Editor: Does the street superintendent draw away ashes if you notify him? If not, to what department of the city should you apply for teams to do your work?

ANXIOUS TAXPAYER.

To the Editor: Just take a look at the banks of the Rock river when the water goes down and see how nicely they look all washed clean of ashes. Why can they not be kept so?

CLEANLINESS.

To the Editor: Now that election is over why not get together on the street proposition? There are many needed crosswalks in the city which should be attended to by the aldermen from the respective wards. Mud holes may do for some towns but Janesville should abolish them.

PEDESTRIAN.

To the Editor: I do not think police matters are half as bad as Old Foggy paints them. Why not give the department a chance to show what they can and will do before you jump on them? It has been too cold to do much reforming during the past winter.

SUNNY JIM.

To the Editor: Some days ago I noticed that the city marshal had arrested a man for riding on the sidewalk with his bicycle. Good for the marshal. If he will only continue the good work it will end this useless spoiling of the walks and violations of the city ordinance.

NOT A BICYCLE OWNER.

To the Editor: If Janesville wants those winter quarters of the Forepaugh-Sells circus located here they had better get a hump on themselves and do something. Such a move would be a good thing for the city.

FARMERS MAY NOT BE FAVORED LONG

Uncle Sam Has No Money to Continue the Weather Bulletin Services.

Twenty thousand Wisconsin farmers may be denied daily weather reports by telephone this year, because the government appropriation for such service for the year ending June 30th, 1905, is nearly used up. Wisconsin has the third largest weather service by telephone in the country. Iowa comes first and Ohio next. The experiment has been started in many other states. Telegrams are sent every morning about 8:30 o'clock by Prof. Cox at the Chicago weather bureau to eight or ten central telephone stations in various Wisconsin towns. At a given signal, which indicates to all the people on the telephone lines to each company that the weather forecast is to be read, the central operator repeats Prof. Cox's message so that everyone may hear. The service has greatly pleased the Wisconsin farmers. Twenty thousand of them are reached by it.

LADIES ENJOYED THEIR MEETINGS

Pleasant Gathering Held Yesterday Afternoon—Productive of Much Good.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the local Y. M. C. A. entertained Mrs. Lyman of Waukesha at their regular meeting in the association building yesterday. Mrs. Lyman is chairman of the executive committee of the Y. M. C. A. Auxiliary at Waukesha. Her mission yesterday was to look over the work of the Y. M. C. A. in this city and especially what the ladies were doing to assist the work of the association. The Janesville auxiliary has a good reputation throughout the state and on the recommendation of the state secretary of General Secretary Willis of Milwaukee Mrs. Lyman came to receive points of interest for their work in Waukesha. Previous to the meeting they were conducted throughout the building inspecting the dormitories and all phases of the work. Mrs. Lyman gave a short talk in the meeting and expressed great appreciation of the work the Janesville women are doing. Mrs. Lyman was entertained while in the city by Miss Julia Warren at her home on Cornelia street. The Waukesha building is about $9,000 in debt at present and the Woman's Auxiliary of that city are carrying the interest on the mortgage as a part of their work. The local Y. M. C. A. women are enthusiastic in the supervision of the dormitories. Social Union club banquet, decoration of the walls in the building and the general interest of the young men.

BURGLAR VISITED WOODRING STORE

Pried Window Shutter Apart Last Evening and Helped Himself to $4.91 in the Cash Drawer.

W. W. Woodring's grocery store on South River street was entered last evening by a burglar who helped himself to the loose change in the cash drawer and departed without even taking the precaution to close the same. The tin-covered shutters which screen one of the rear windows were pried apart and the hooks released, enabling the thief to raise the unlocked sash and get in without breaking the glass. The cash drawer was also unlocked, so the way was easy all along the line. Miss Fenton, the bookkeeper, found that just $4.91 was missing. Mr. Woodring was in the store at eight and again at 9:30 last evening. The burglar evidently took place some time about midnight. Electric lights were burning as usual and the entire interior of the store could be surveyed by any passer-by.

SUMMER REPAIRING IS NOW COMMENCED

Railroad Companies Are Distributing Ties, Burning Grass and Cleaning Tracks.

Already are the railroad companies commenced on their regular summer cleaning up and repair work. Trains have been sent out from the various points on the divisions distributing ties along the tracks. These will be used to replace the rotten or damaged timber. Though the yards are cleaned continually winter and summer, they now present a neater appearance than they have for some months. Grass along the tracks is being burned and soon the new growth of this year will cover the black spots. In many places, particularly in the lowlands and where the water surrounded or submerged the tracks this spring, will there be rebalancing done. This work will continue throughout the summer and only be partially stopped by the closing in of winter.

ROY PIERSON,

A ROSE OF NORMANDY

By WILLIAM R. A. WILSON

Tonti braced himself against the cliff-wall and scarcely breathed for fear of imparting motion to the rope and causing some sound above that would betray them. Relief soon came, for the image of his foe vanished and in a moment the head of Madame Bizard showed itself again, motioning him to proceed. He did so hastily, as the strain on his arm was terrific. They had reached a point a couple of yards from the bottom when Renee, who had seen all that transpired, suddenly relaxed her hold, unable to maintain it any longer, and dropped. She struck against Pompon's shoulder, glancing off and falling lightly to the ground. A cry of suppressed pain came from her lips, however, for one foot had turned under a stone and wrenched her ankle. Tonti hurriedly raised her and helped her into the canoe which was waiting a few feet away. Madame Bizard then threw off the coil of rope about the trunk and waved her last farewell. It was indeed her last, for when the escape of the prisoners was discovered, she was suspected, and fell before a blow from her infuriated paramour. Thus did she give her life as the penalty for attempting to atone by one good deed for the wretched frailty of her past.

Pompon seized the grave-vine rope and stowed it away in the canoe in order to leave no trace behind of their flight, and jumping aboard, they were once more afloat. At first they paddled cautiously through the shade at the water's edge until they were out of sight of the Indian camp. Then they struck boldly out, making the boat fairly fly over the water in their haste to place as great distance as possible between themselves and their pursuers. A strict silence was maintained, broken only once by Renee, who applauded Pompon for the ingenuity and boldness of his plan. He was gratified at her praise, and replied:

"Ma foi! Madame Bizard, there was no other way. If a man can't enter a tiger's den he can't get her cubs."

Just as the first pink tinges of the coming day appeared in the east they reached the upper end of the lake. Here they landed, and after placing several huge stones in the canoe, Pompon cut a hole in its side, and giving it a shove sent it out into the lake and watched it slowly sink, murmuring:

"A sad way to sink a friend who has aided you."

He then produced a small stock of provisions that Madame Bizard had hastily gathered and given him. This consisted of a piece of smoked meat and some ground maize. A portion of this sufficed for their breakfast. They were about to start on their journey again when it was found that Renee's ankle, which had swollen visibly during their passage over the lake, pained her so severely when she touched the ground with her foot that she was unable to walk a step. This was a grave question, for every moment lost at this stage of their progress made the chances of their recapture all the greater. There was no time to devise any means of transport for her. One thing only could be done. Tonti arose to the occasion.

"Mademoiselle," he said apologetically, "remember that all our lives are in danger, and that this is no time to consult your preferences. You must proceed. You cannot walk; permit me to walk for you."

"How?" queried Renee in a puzzled tone.

"Ma foi! I must carry you."

He had expected an outbreak at this proposal, or at least a strong resistance, but she only flushed, and, looking down, said:

"You are the commander of this forlorn hope, Capitaine Tonti. If there is no other way, I suppose I must be obedient."

Thus they started off. Pompon in the lead, with Tonti bearing Renee in his arms close behind. At first her cheeks were a mass of flame and her head was well averted. But gradually the pressure of the great strong, protecting arms about her brought to her mind a sense of infinite relief and restfulness, while the tact and consideration for her embarrassment won for him her deepest thanks. Thus it was that she strove to make the burden lighter and the way less tedious by her cheerful words and bright smile.

For Tonti it was exquisite torture. He knew that it but needed a word from him and the tired head would rest upon his shoulder once for all; that the recital of his love would bring a like sweet confession. But he steeled his heart as he thought of his friend waiting for him so many leagues distant, who, knowing all other men to be false, held faith in his constancy and loyalty. Thus he fought the two battles daily, hourly: the outer one against the physical fatigue and hardships of the journey; the inner and greater task, the unrelenting conflict of a man struggling against himself.

The first night they encamped on the mossy banks of a bubbling spring, cold and clear, that, overflowing its bounds, trickled off and disappeared among the trees. Tonti, on returning from an exploring expedition in the neighborhood, found Pompon had prescribed the application of the cooling water to the inflamed ankle and had employed a little of the yellow salve possessed of wonderful curative powers, that he always carried with him.

The next morning, after a meal that still further diminished their stock of food, and a refreshing draught at the spring, they resumed their march. They were headed in a westerly direction that would eventually bring them to the Niagara river. It would then be easy by following its course to reach the fort. Naturally, Tonti made but slow progress, handicapped as he was with the double load. The second day ended without any signs of pursuit, so that they began to feel easy in regard to that point. But an equally serious danger presented itself. Their foot was almost exhausted and they had no means of obtaining more. A few berries here and there were all that they had been able to find. Pompon had made numerous efforts to kill a bird or rabbit, but without success. They struggled bravely on. At length after two days had passed without their having had a morsel with which to renew their strength, Pompon resolved on desperate measures. They were still so far from their destination that at their present progress it would take a week before arriving there. But Pompon knew that it would take longer still, for he had watched the increased efforts made by Tonti to cover the accustomed distance; had seen his feet falter, and tottering take the place of the firmness of stride and spring of step that existed at first. He thought carefully, and finally announced that he had found a means of providing them with food on the morrow.

"Wait until morning and I promise you both shall have something to eat."

In the morning, when Tonti arose, Pompon was nowhere to be found. On a strip of bark beside the spring was a quantity of pounded maize and a tiny piece of smoke meat. Tonti understood it. Pompon had secreted a portion of his food each day and saved it for some such emergency. His disappearance he readily interpreted as an effort to advance at a more rapid rate than was possible with the others and secure assistance.

Renee exclaimed at Pompon's forethought, and made Tonti eat the larger share. They proceeded together as best they could the next two days. At length Tonti, completely worn out, awakened to find himself so weak and giddy he could not rise. There was but one thing to do: they would have to await the result of Pompon's errand. If he himself were to fail by the way they could at least die together. Two days more passed. The two lovers, their hearts filled with the calm joy of a known but untold love, watched the evening shadows descend almost with the fear that the morrow might bring the aid that would at once save them and banish forever the sweet season of companionship that had been theirs. Tonti awakened before dawn. The thousand confused voices of the night were hushed as if in expectant waiting of the coming day. Far off he heard the quivering call of a night-

bird, that he recognized as the voice of Pompon. Nearer and nearer it approached. WILL FIGHT GIFT TO BITTER END

CORPORATE EVILS THREATEN

National Welfare Induces Clergymen to Endeavor to Uphold Church as Moral Educator and to Scrutinize Donor's Character.

Boston, Mass., April 5.—A circular letter protesting against the course of the American missions board in accepting $100,000 from John D. Rockefeller, has been prepared, and copies will be mailed at once to every Congregational clergyman in the United States.

A committee of ministers, which took the action after the prudential committee of the board refused to assist it, will keep up the fight independently. The campaign will be continued until a victory is won or all hope lost.

"The protest," says the letter, "rests on the conviction that the church must not stand in compromising relation to a man who in public thought represents methods that are oppressive, dangerous and wrong. We cannot disregard the effect of the association which his name, in view of facts that are widespread and notorious, unfortunately carries with it."

Question of Moral Prestige.
"The church cannot afford to enter into any relation that may weaken or discredit it in the fulfillment of its task. The main question is one of the moral prestige and power of the church."

"All the confusion arising from the liberal use of the figure 'talented money' may be brushed aside at once. Money is impersonal; it is not tainted and cannot taint morality."

"The church owes it to itself and the public conscience to acknowledge responsibility when it voluntarily enters into dealings with a donor who openly stands impeached of serious offenses which it is our duty to condemn."

"It is not required that the church form a tribunal to pass judgment on personal character or probe into the business methods of all givers. Such examination is not necessary in refusing a gift. Public belief and expression, formed on extensive evidence through a long series of years, furnishes sufficient basis for such action."

Fear Corporate Evils.
"Where we must end is shown by the answer of the prudential committee. We must end in the declaration of complete irresponsibility for the sources from which we accept gifts. Their words are: 'The principle on which this policy rests is the belief that our responsibility begins with the receipt of the gift; before gifts are received the responsibility is not ours, but is that of donors in their own conscience.'"

"We believe the church never will rest in this principle. It has not done so in the past. By many acts and utterances the church has declared its right and duty to discriminate among donors. The principle itself is vicious and corrupting."

"The motives which constrain us to this appeal are a deep solicitude because of the corporate evils that threaten our nation, our sense of the solemn and imperative mission of the church as the moral educator of the people, and a jealous zeal lest its energy and authority be impaired by any seeming compromise with the evil it is set to condemn."

COSTLY LITIGATION IS ENDED

Federal Supreme Court Decides Against Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co.

Marquette, Mich., April 5.—On the ground that no federal question was involved, hence that it was without jurisdiction, the United States supreme court has filed a decision in favor of the defendant in the celebrated case of the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company against the Negaunee Iron company. The suit has been in the courts here for five years and has been costly. It involves mining property at Negaunee worth millions. The litigation was instituted to compel the Negaunee company, otherwise the Breitung estate of Marquette, to recognize a ninety-nine-year lease granted to the Pioneer Iron company, a corporation afterward taken over by the Cleveland Cliffs company, but in both the circuit and state supreme courts the lease has been held invalid.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

The Little Goat's Trick

One day a very hungry wolf pounced down upon a little goat and was just about to make a meal of him when the goat cried out:

"Wait a minute! I have something to say."

"What is it?" asked the wolf.

"If you will let me go and not eat me, as you intended to do," said the goat, "I'll tell you where there are more goats than you have teeth in your mouth."

HE LOOKED DOWN AND SAW THEM.

"My, my," exclaimed the wolf, smacking his lips, "I'll agree to that."

"Well," declared the goat, "if you run up to the top of yonder mountain you'll see the goats on the other side, and I am sure there are more there than you could eat in a month."

So the wolf ran off up the side of the mountain, but the farther he ran the higher the mountain seemed, and it was a very long time before he reached the top, tired and footsore and out of breath and more hungry than he had been before.

And what do you think was the first thing he saw? A herd of goats. There must have been 200 of them. They were grazing peacefully on a broad plain on the other side of the mountain.

But what else do you suppose? Why, the other side of the mountain was perfectly straight up and down, just like the walls of this room, only as high as fifty houses placed on top of each other, and at the foot of this steep cliff was a broad river that was as swift as an ocean current. Then it was on the other side of this stream that the plain lay upon which the goats were feeding. It was impossible for the wolf to get to them.

"That little goat has played me a trick," said the wolf sorrowfully. —Pittsburg Dispatch.

The Cautious Gobbler

The Rev. Ishbosheth Whitewash had at one time a large brood of fowls. They kept him supplied with eggs enough to make cake for the donation parties that so frequently visited him. They also furnished food for the large number of visiting clergy who found it convenient to drop in whenever they felt the need of chicken. But so large had been the demand on his fowls that the stock was now reduced to a tough old rooster and a forlorn turkey gobbler. One day the Rev. I. Whitewash had friends to dine and went out into the yard for the capture of one or other of the lonesome pair.

Mr. Turkey Gobbler saw him coming. "No, you don't!" he cried as he flew up on the ridgepole of the barn.

"They're after me," said the rooster as he slipped through the parson's fingers, leaving a crop of tail feathers. "Get under the barn!" shrieked the gobbler.

"Give me time, that's all!" the rooster cried back at him. The parson was outwitted. He poked and shooed and entreated, but both were wary.

At length, discouraged, he went into the house.

Cautiously Mr. Rooster crept out and crowded up to the gobbler. "D'yer-think—he's—gone—for—good?"

And the cautious old gobbler gobbled back:

Warsaw a Milk Town.
The town of Warsaw may be called the milk producers' Eden, although the milk consumers' Eden it certainly is not. There is probably nowhere such a "milk town" as this. Restaurants are little frequented. On the other hand, the public frequent the various dairies in great numbers in order to chat with friends or read the newspapers, to the accompaniment of a black or white coffee or a glass of cold or warm milk.

STATIONERY IS TALKATIVE.

Business stationery is never mute. The cheap kind talks about you—and libels you. The right kind talks about you—and praises you. The cheap kind costs you more—if you consider it expensive to lose "caste" in a business way. The right kind costs you less—if you consider "prestige" worth anything.

If you want your Stationery to boost instead of to be-little your business ---then we should like to talk "Printing" to you.
